THESE GUYS ARE THE REAL DEAL

When I first read about Invention Home, I thought to myself, "What's the catch?" The contract sounded too good to be true. But because they were endorsed by the Better Business Bureau, United Inventors Association and the Ghostline Girls, I decided to move forward.

Invention Home required only a small amount of money up front to set up my Web site, and they acted like I was their only customer. I couldn't believe all the attention and details they shared. It was like working with a dedicated family.

Trust me, you can trust them. They even encouraged me to reject the first agreement proposed by a prospective licensing company due to the terms set forth in the agreement. This showed me they cared about landing the best deal possible. They continued to push the company for a win/win agreement.

One word of caution: Not all ideas are created equal. Ultimately, your idea will have to sell itself. But if you want a dedicated team, then hire Invention Home. I am glad I did.
